Acknowledgements

The Class of 1992 would like to thank their class advisor of the past three years, Mrs. Alice O'Regan. When we had to find a new advisor in our sophomore year, Mrs. O'Regan was there ready to work hard and make our class work hard towards graduation. Mrs. O'Regan came through for us sophomore year and stayed with us until the end.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation for all Mrs. O'Regan did for us.

The Class of 1992 would like to say thank you to Mrs. Melodie Guinta who directed our senior class play, "Tom Jones". Mrs. Guinta put in many hours of time and many hours of coaching to make our play the best! Mrs. Guinta made the members of the cast feel comfortable in their roles and brought out the true "actor" in us all.

We would like to say how lucky we are that Mrs. Guinta was there to guide us in one of the most memorable activities in our high school careers.

Superintendent: Mr. Daniel K. Kehoe

To the Millis High School Class of 1992:

Congratulations to each of you and to your Class upon successfully completing your Millis education.

You have the foundation! Now you have the opportunity to take the next step in being a lifelong learner. For some, this means more formal schooling and for others, it means going directly to work. In either case you are launching your next step at being a learner. You are also being given the challenge of being a teacher. As I mentioned to you during your time in Millis, "everyone is a teacher!" I think that you will find in the years ahead that those you meet and teach will learn more from you by your actions than by your words. I suspect that you will learn more from others that way too.

Wherever you go I hope you find the kind of caring and support that has been a key part of your Millis experience. Maintain your values and your positive outlook. The world is fortunate to have you joining in an active role of contributing your strengths to the many challenges that we all will meet in the years ahead.

Thank you all for your welcoming and accepting me as part of the Millis community. I am proud to say that I am part of the Millis schools. I hope you will always be proud to say, "I'm from Millis".

Very sincerely,

Daniel K. Kehoe

To The Class of 1992

Congratulations to all of you for having achieved this milestone in your lives. Your diploma and accompanying transcript provide you the ticket necessary to avail yourselves of the opportunities which you will meet. The efforts you have made toward this accomplishment should be reflected upon for they will be the bench mark of your future successes. The better prepared you are, the more likely you are to be of consequence to yourselves as well as to others.

The next few years shall be seen as the best and worst of times. The best because you have the opportunity to prepare; the worst because the world you are about to enter is unsettled and disquieting at best. For those who haven't prepared, obstacles will seem insurmountable, but for those who are prepared, obstacles will be transformed into opportunities.

May your lives be filled with happiness and your ultimate feeling of worth be reflective of not only the things you have accomplished, but also of the things you have shared.

Sincerely,
Paul A. Brunelle

It was a disappointing season after last year's tournament bid. Our record was 1-15 but we still managed to have a great time on the field. Led by Captains Michelle Cornoni, Kerry Collins and Alison Alessi and senior goalkeeper Kerri Blomstrom, the team gained important experience and hopes to improve next year.

Spirit Week

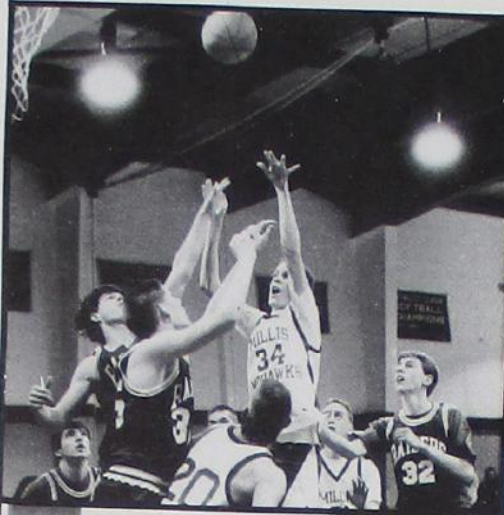

This years' Spirit Week contests were quite heated, it was a tight race between all classes. Everyone got into the act for Hippie and Red/White Days. The wall decoration was won by the seniors with their stomping area while the effigy was won by the juniors. The class songs showed why everyone in school isn't in the Chorus. In the end the seniors pulled off the competition by one point! Maybe next year this trend can be broken!

WINTER

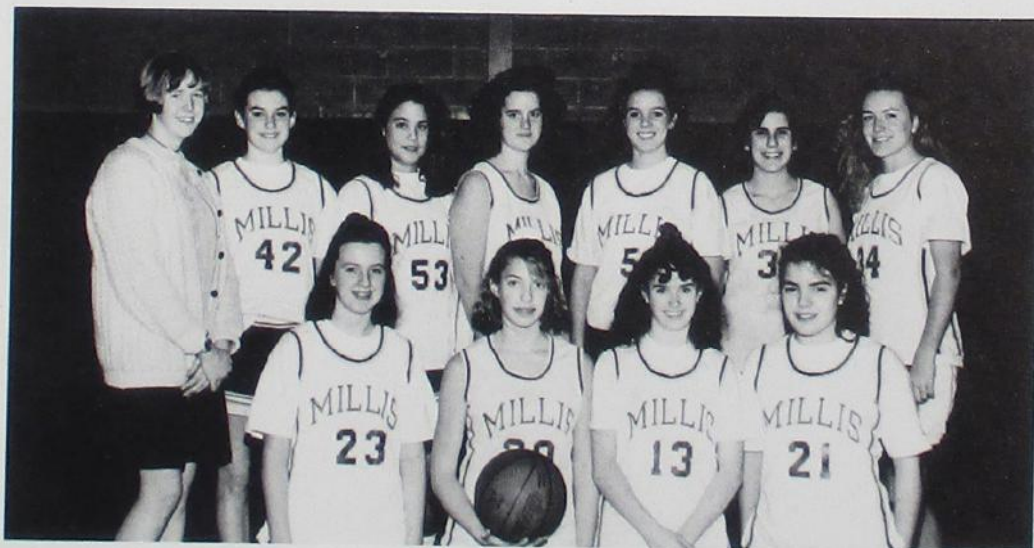

The team did not have a very prosperous season but we had a lot of fun. Our record did not indicate how much heart and spirit we put into each game. Our steady shooter, Amanda VanVoorhis, placed second in the Middlesex News Three-Point Contest. Alison Alessi and Amanda VanVoorhis were selected as Honorable Mention All-Stars for their fine play on the court. At the sports banquet Alison was named this season's M.V.P. Good Luck next year from your captains Ker and Al.

CLASS of 1992

VALEDICTORIAN — Alison Alessi

The past four years of our lives have been spent primarily, in education. It has been a time of exploration of ourselves in order to discover who we really are. And, though these years have been both enjoyable and memorable, they have been extremely secure. We have lived within the security of a high school lifestyle, filled with obligations and deadlines but we have just merely observed events occurring around us in the so called real world.

Since our entrance into high school this world has changed dramatically. We have seen the demise of the once powerful Soviet Union and the reunification of Germany. We have seen elections, both in our own country and in countries where popular elections have never before been held. We have seen people come together in peace and tear apart in war. We have seen the violence, hate and intolerance in our country and abroad. We have also seen the love, understanding and tolerance in the world. But all of these things seem so distant from our mundane lives at Millis High School. Those generations who are now living and actively taking part in the world are experiencing life and it really does not affect us too much.

Now, as we graduate from high school, it is our turn to go out and actually live life and be part of world happenings. The class of 1992 will exert a powerful influence on the world in the years to come. Our ideas will help shape the future of many to follow. Issues facing us are, by far, more challenging than those which faced our predecessors, yet I am confident that with the skills, experiences and confidence we have acquired, solutions to the seemingly overwhelming problems that exist, will be discovered. Problems, such as the need to preserve our environment, education cutbacks, violence and racism, drugs and poverty in our cities, the AIDS epidemic and recession do not have simple solutions. They do, however need to be dealt with. Perhaps answers to these problems will be found by one of the graduates you know.

I am grateful for those few occasions during these past four years when I felt I was really living and not just watching life. One such occasion was a visit to the then Soviet Union in February of 1990. There I saw some of the most beautiful and mysterious sights ever beheld. Red Square on a snowy winter night, the beautiful Ice Palace in Leningrad, the Kremlin with its magical cathedrals and palaces. As amazing as these sights were they are not what I remember most about my trip. The people I met, especially my peers in the Moscow High School we visited were inspirational. They were so friendly and open and genuinely interested in us it was easy to talk to them. And what I discovered throughout the course of conversation was that we are really very similar people. I actually felt that I was contributing to world peace and understanding just by listening to what they said and by telling people what I had seen.

However, life is not just about positive and exciting experiences. It is often harsh and depressing and can cause a lot of stress. During the course of these past four years I lost two very special grandparents whom I loved and who taught me more than high school ever could. Each of us has had to deal with life in a negative aspect and it can be very difficult though I believe it makes you a stronger person. Life can be very unfair at certain moments but at the same time I think that the grief I felt helped me to realize how precious life was and made me make the most of my own life.

This past year we seniors have all lived a little in that we each made a very important decision about our futures. Some of us have planned further education while others have chosen to enter the work force and still others have enlisted in the military. These decisions we made have set us on the way to adulthood and have begun the process of living for us.

Now the time has come for us to leave Millis High School, and though we may separate, some of us forever, we, the Class of '92 have a link that can never be dissolved and that is our education. I will never forget these past four years and especially all the truly unique and special people I have had the pleasure of calling my classmates and my friends. I also look forward, to the challenges that lie ahead and to finding my role whatever it may be, in the world. Best of luck to you all and always remember, "It's not what the world holds for you, it's what you bring to it."

SALUTATORIAN — Moira Cannon

Good evening. We are here tonight to celebrate the commencement of the class of nineteen hundred and ninety-two. For the past few weeks I have been filled with some apprehension of tonight's ceremonies. There are many emotions associated with graduation, and try as I might, I could not prepare myself for them.

I have spent my whole life here in Millis. For me, graduation means leaving not only the high school, but also my home. It means saying farewell to all those people with whom I have shared many childhood memories, and a great deal of my life. Yet, graduation is not only a time of sadness, but also a time of great joy. We have been given the wings of freedom, and the power to use them to the best of our abilities. This is the time to establish our own identities, to depart from the expectations of others, and to realize our own dreams.

However, I think the strangest part of graduation is the change of perspective. As we left on our final day of school, one thought ran through my mind. "I shouldn't be leaving, it can't be our turn yet." I felt as though I should still be in one of the classrooms watching everyone go by. These mixed emotions reminded me of a visit I made to a friend in the hospital. I went to see him with two classmates. We were only able to stay long enough to say hello. As we left, we started to walk up the hill that leads to the parking lot. For some reason, we started to laugh. It wasn't because a joke had been made or that we saw something funny. It was just that the sun was shining, and we were friends.

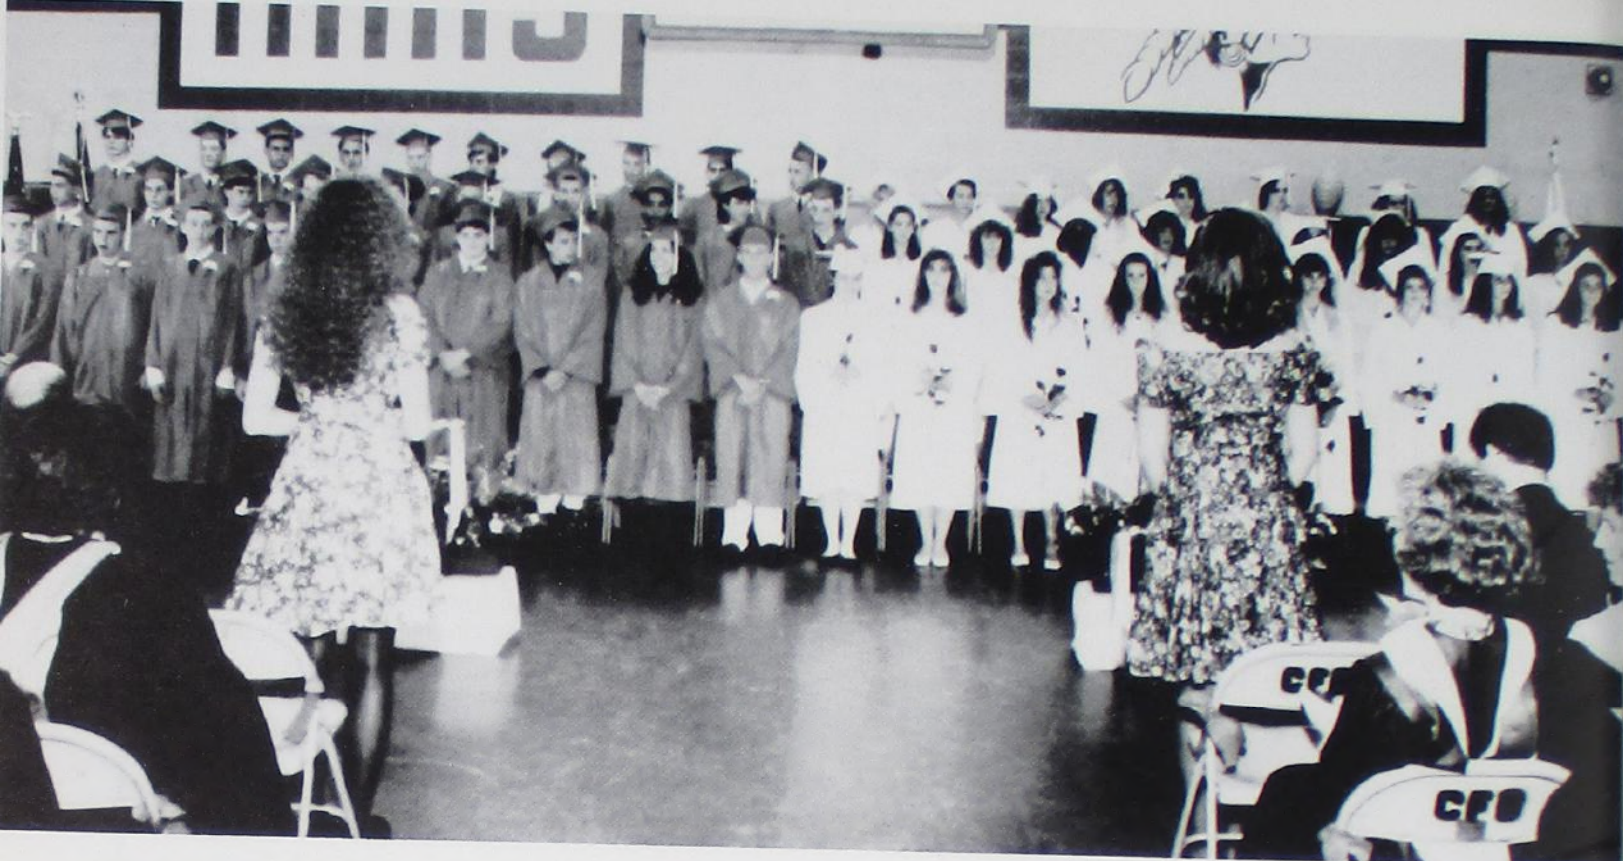

As our laughter rang through the hillside, I thought of the people inside the brick buildings of the hospital. Some people were feeling the joy of recovery, others had to deal with the pain of death, and still more people were faced with the worry of not knowing. How long would they have to stay? What was really wrong them? At that instant I realized it was just Chance that made us visitors instead of patients.

It was also Chance that put the Class of 1992 together. We are like the pond when the rock has been thrown in. The ripples are strongest nearest the stone. They grow, they overlap, and they also fade away. Such are the people of the Class of 1992. The presence of each individual has overlapped in some other's life. Sometimes, strong friendship's are formed. Other times, it is merely a passing acquaintance. But no matter what the relationship has been, all our hearts have been touched.

As we leave Millis, there are many hands that Fate may deal us. However, they will all be filled with some happiness, and they will all be filled with some misfortune. It is this combination of events and emotions that make up life. As we depart, we will say good-bye to old friends and familiar faces. They will not be forgotten, because true friends are always in the heart. Whatever path we may follow, it will be filled with new friends, new faces, and new hopes. Together, these are the people that we will think of when times grow tough and these are the people we will think of during times of celebration.

Tonight, as we each receive that long awaited diploma, many emotions will be present. Some of us will feel a great deal of excitement, others will feel sadness, and still more of us feel uncertainty at the thought of the future. Yet, despite all of our thoughts, all of our feelings, all our memories, and all that Millis has been, we know we will be able to conquer all that life holds for us.

He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak. Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall; but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint.
